Interactions among shareable components. Tasks, data, models and tests are components (gray nodes) that lend themselves to sharing among labs and across disciplines, to enable collaborative construction and testing of big models driven by big brain and behavioral datasets assembled across labs.